Following a teaser that introduced Mackie, Netflix has released the full trailer for season two, which follows Kovacs as he hunts for his long lost love, Quellcryst Falconer, nearly 30 years after the events of season one.

However, he'll uncover some complications, including a series of brutal murders, which pose dangerous scenarios that may be linked to his search for Quell.

The eight-episode second season premieres Feb. 27 on Netflix. Check out the key art below:
