

Disney Plus Delves Into 'World According to Jeff Goldblum'

10.24.2021

If you are like Jeff Goldblum, you may share an interest in such topics as magic, fireworks, monsters, dogs, dance and more.

Disney Plus celebrated the actor's birthday by releasing the official trailer and key art for the second season of his original series, The World According to Jeff Goldblum, which is produced by Jane Root's Nutopia (Limitless with Chris Hemsworth) and comes from National Geographic.

To learn as much as possible about these subjects, Goldblum meets with experts like famed magicians Penn & Teller, two-time Oscar-winning animator Phil Tippet and Atlanta influencers Collab Crib. He also pays a visit to the woods of Northern California to search for Bigfoot and has a dance-off with a sea lion to discover the secret language of dance.

Goldblum and Keith Addis executive produce the series. For Nutopia, Jane Root, Sara Brailsford and Arif Nurmohamed are executive producers, and John Hodgson is co-executive producer. Matt Renner and Chris L. Kugelman serve as executive producers for National Geographic.

The first five episodes of the series will become available on Disney Plus on Disney Plus Day on Nov. 12, when the company will also offer new content releases, fan experiences, exclusive offers and more across its platforms.

"I give it ten out of ten Goldblums, which is my highest rating," says Goldblum.

Key art for Disney Plus' 'The World According to Jeff Goldblum.'